and basketball join hands

The Redhill High School girls' basketball festival was held in February this year at the school in Sandton. Five schools took part in the festival. The festival was part of the celebration of Redhill High School's 100th birthday this year. Douglasdale Dairy gave their support. They sponsored the floating trophies and they gave out milk hampers.

Redhill High School's under-15 and under-18 girls basketball teams welcomed the other four schools at their school grounds. The other schools that took part were Wendywood, Sacred Heart, Crawford Benmore and Bishops Haven. Redhill High School won the under-15 tournament and Bishops Haven were the winners of the under-18 tournament.

The tournament offers children the opportunity to participate in fun outdoor activities. It is a healthy way to keep children active and give their bodies exercise. Douglasdale Dairy decided that this tournament was perfect to show that milk is healthy for young people, says Marina Hanson, marketing manager of Douglasdale Dairy. UM
